

Tomma Barnes is a Senior Environmental Scientist, specializing in estuarine ecology and management, at the South Florida Water Management District, Fort Myers, Florida and an adjunct faculty at Florida Gulf Coast University. Tomma is highly involved with Comprehensive Everglades Restoration Projects. She has a M.S. in Biology and Evolutionary Ecology with a specialty in Coastal Zone Management from the University of West Florida and has recently graduated from Nova Southeastern University with a Ph.D. in Oceanography.