Introduction

This “Oceanography Bibliography” provides an instructional resource for referencing published literature specific to the study of ocean sciences. Elementary and secondary teachers may use these references to further students’ reading skills and understanding of science concepts and the achievement of science standards.

Bibliographical references include the author, title, publisher information, subject, reading level, interest level, and a priority rating.

- ★ Baker, Jeannie THE HIDDEN FOREST
Bak ISBN: 0688157610 Greenwillow 2000 unpagged.
Subject[s]: Kelp - Fiction
Skin diving - Fiction
Tasmania - Fiction
Reading Level, gr. 2-3 Interest Level, gr. PreK-3 P-1 ★

A young boy, Ben, is out fishing with a trap. He casually discards any catch he does not want. When he loses his trap overboard, he asks his friend Sophie to help him dive for it. As they swim through the kelp forest, they encounter a habitat filled with plant and animal life, even a whale. This experience changes Ben's thinking about the value of marine life. Baker's collages are made of natural materials and exquisitely capture the beauty of the sea. Excellent for discussing man and nature and this artistic technique.

Subject[s]: Ocean – Fiction
Rocks – Fiction
Seashore - Fiction
Reading Level, gr. 3-4 Interest Level, gr. 2-4 P-2

A young boy finds an intriguing rock on the beach and takes it home as a treasure. Though he is unaware of its history, the story tells the reader how it came to be along the seashore. Georg Hallensleben's illustrations are colorful and bold, but not informative. Useful for introducing the study of geology.

Keywords: Geology - Earth science - Rocks - Oceans - Seacoasts - Seashores - Beaches

ISBN: 0399236325 Putnam 2002 unpagued.
Subject[s]: Atlantic Ocean - Fiction
Ocean - Fiction
Reading Level, gr. 3-4 Interest Level, gr. K-3 P-1★

Written from the point of view of the Atlantic Ocean, information regarding the size, location, growth, contents, and tides is presented. Karas' large doublepage illustrations in gouache, acrylic, and pencil are child-like and include appealing human and animal characters not mentioned in the text. The sparse narrative is conversational and informative. Includes one page fact sheet. Excellent for motivating units in earth science related to the ocean, for discussing point of view, and for reading aloud.

Subject[s]: Ocean - Fiction
Senses and sensation - Fiction
Stories in rhyme
Reading Level, gr. 3-4 Interest Level, gr. 1-4 P-2

A young girl frolics at the ocean, drawing upon her five senses to poetically describe, in rhyming couplet form, the taste, feel, smell, sights, and sounds she experiences. Mark Astrella's acrylic on airbrush paper illustrations are striking, but a little irritating because the skin tone and hair style of the little girl vary throughout the book, even though this adventure takes place in one afternoon. Useful for encouraging young students to describe an experience in terms of all their senses.
